I really wanted to like these. The fins and snorkel work and fit great. The mask has a seam on each side of the nose piece that lets water in by the nose. It looks like poor manufacturing on the silicon gasket part. I tried them loose, and tight to see if I could get a good seal but ended up drinking a lot of saltwater through my nose. I'll be looking for something different for my next trip.

Update: I tried 3 other pairs of goggles, all of which had the same leaky nose problem. After shaving my stubble it fixed the problem. These were the most comfortable out of all the pairs I tried. I had a great time on the reef thanks to these.

I owned a basic snorkeling set quite some time ago that today would be considered an old-school mask, shoe fins and an attached open-end snorkeling tube. That set was great back in the 80's, but what would be considered a basic set today is light years beyond what I was using. This Cressi snorkeling set is designed and manufactured in Italy. Cressi has been making water gear like this since 1946.

This basic snorkeling set comes in two color combinations: Royal Blue & Black and Mustard Yellow and Black. The fins are considered short adjustable fins (SAF), measuring 17" from end to end. The flip end is 8" wide. I wear a size 9 M (D) shoe, so according to the fit listing on Amazon I should wear a Medium/Large pair of fins (shoe sizes 8-10). That size fit me perfectly. Unlike the fins I used to have, there is a single gill opening on the underside near the end of my toes that allows water to flow through the fins, rather than collect in the foot pocket. My old school fins had a large opening on the top of the fins (see photo). The rubber

The face mask has an excellent seal and good strap adjustment so several different users were able to use this set without anyone experiencing water leaking into the mask. The snorkel is good at blocking water from waves or quick swims underwater. The fins are nice because they are compact for travel but long enough to be useful.

Short fins are perfect for ocean snorkeling. During our trip, the ocean got very rough and the fins really helped me swim back to the boat. The snorkel set is excellent quality. Some fogging and water in your mouth may happen but that's expected of any snorkeling kit.

Overall, a great set to bring along on vacation - used to snorkel a couple of times while in the TCI. Never got any water in the eye portion. However, sometimes struggled to get a good seal on the nose portion (doesn't effect breathing, since that's through the mouth, yet burns the nostrils!).

Great product. But, I will say. Take the time using a lighter and toothpaste to properly burn off the excess silicone from the mask. Otherwise, it fogs almost immediately.

I ordered both this snorkel set and a highly rated, more expensive silicone "frameless" mask, expecting to keep the latter & use this set only as a backup. Turned out the frameless mask, 1 size only, didn't fit my smaller face. The (well-priced) snorkel set mask fit comfortably, & most important, did not leak. Only quibble I might have would be connecting/adjusting the snorkel. But the mask & snorkel provided me hours of great vacation snorkeling - I recommend. [Note: Set includes fins; I haven't tried these yet.]

★★★★☆ A really nice travel snorkel set

Reviewed in Canada 🇨🇦 on December 15, 2017

Color: Blue | Size: L/XL | US Man 11/13 | US Lady 12/14 | Verified Purchase

Really nice snorkel set. This set is particularly adept for travel since the flippers are shorter (and therefore more portable). The goggles and snorkel tube are well-engineered and I have no complaints. They worked like a charm on a recent Caribbean trip. The valves in the snorkel tube worked well at allowing water to be evacuated, but did an equally excellent job at preventing water ingress. The goggles sealed well and did not leak during use.

The flippers are a bit stiff around where your feet goes in and caused a bit of irritation. If I didn't secure the adjustable strap tight enough they would come loose, but if I tightened them they caused irritation. The adjustable strap works quite easily.

The carry bag is a nice touch, but I feel it does not have adequate breathability to allow efficient drying. Also, it does not have much extra room to be used as a general use carry bag to the beach. I opted to purchase a separate mesh bag to carry this set and allow extra room for additional items like a towel, etc.

★★★★★ Going to use this 2 times a year? This one is fine.

Reviewed in Canada 🇨🇦 on December 23, 2018

Color: Blue | Size: S/M | US Man 6.5/8.5 | US Lady 7.5/9.5 | Verified Purchase

I bought this set to go snorkelling approximately 2 times per year and it's great for the price. My friend bought a much more expensive set and this one seems just as good for casual use. The shorter flippers are great for hiking into the spot you're going to go snorkelling in, and I didn't really find them to be a significant downgrade from the full sized ones for this extreme-casual use. If I couldn't find these in my storage locker and my annual 1-time per year snorkelling event was coming up, I would order this set again.
